· FRAGRANT WATERS' MURMUR That the week has been made remarkable by murderous assaults and a reign of terror in the Chinese quarter, which were the outcome of clanish disputes over the four-days' religious processions.

That the most remarkable feature of all was that the Executive made absolutely no special effort to assert British authority for three or four days.

That the erroneous notion entertained by many Chinese, that this Colony is mereiyadependency of Kwangtung, was there by encouraged, and not a few Celestials gave it out that the reign of terror was stopped by a mandarin sent specially for that purpose by the Cauton Viceroy. That it may be granted the Police Force acted with energy where and when they could, and that there was not very much of riot or lawlessness shown, but, all the Chinese in the pretection of their pers sons, and property by the Hongkoog Government has been very much weak-

That while it is a pity to see an intelligent man opposing the openness of company sectings held under statute law, it fortunate that the combined reason and good scuse of the shareholders renders such opposition entirely necless.

BI-METALLISTS IN COUNCIL We take the following article from the Financial News of February 9. The arguments it contains are by no means in accor dance with the strict rule of logic, but they are interesting as showing how the Monometallists at home regard the proposed bi-metallic cure for the svils resulting from the uncertainty of exchange. They not only deny that bi-metallism on a broad international basis would be a cure, but they assert that no cure is possible - from which the only conclusion that it is possible for any intelligent person to arrive at is that the finances; agriculture, industries and trade of the poss of the few simple, objections, to which British Empire are all in a hopeless state and that therefore the British Empire had them.

Thus the oracle of the Financial News:-It would have been more difficult for Mr Dick to keep King Charles's head out of bit memorial than for the average Bi-metallist not to attribute all the evils of commercial and fluencial depression to the non-adoption of his favourite theory. It is nothing to him that the causes of the present state of things are in a large measure pater and obvious, and have as little connection with the transit of Venue. He is indifferent to fact that the leading States of Continental Europe are exhausting their resources in military expenditure; that speculation. over-inflation of values, and maladministration have produced the orises in South America and Australia. He blinks the circumstance that the attempt to place an difficulties under which the United States one should keep up strength by taking Private are labouring. In his view all the disasters we are now suffering from have been brought about by the undue appropriation of gold and the undue depreciation of silver; and the one remedy is an international agreement for propping up the whitemetal. If, he argues, we can arrive at a permanent company between the nations. and if thereby a stable relation can be established between the two metals, thenthen our financial and commercial troubles will vanish like a morning mist before the sun. and all will be well. does not believe in the enormous practical difficulty of reaching an international agreement on the subject, or, even if that were compassed, in the impossibility of establishis said to have hectored a great deal and to ing a stable ratio between the two metals in should be carrying money like a trader. At the commencement of the proceedings a letter was read from the President, Mr. Henry H. Gibbs, who was unfortunately prevented by illness from occupying the chair. Mr Gibbs begins his letter remarking, with a somewhat melancholy humour, that influenza does not spare even the President of the Bi-metallic League. But he cheers up later and ventures upon the assertion that the stars in their courses are fighting for us,' and proceeds to hope that the result of the Indian experiment will lead the Home Government to return at last to the ancient principles of money. It is ourious that the meeting of the League coincides with a fall in the value of silver to the lowest price on record. This fact, indeed, forms a striking comment upon the uncertainty of one of the bases on which the Bi-metallists seek to ground their mmutable ratio, but no coubt they will interpret it as a further instance of the evils arising from an obstinate adhesion to monemetalism. Sir David Barbour, the principal speaker at the meeting, made one admission. however, which very few bimetallists are likely to adopt; he said : As to the experiexperiments had failed. It was true that the attempt to hold up the exchange by zing an artificial minimum had failed, be the difficulties that had arisen rreater than he anticipated or overcome by a sound wiltoy. We are glad to hear that an anthority on Indian affairs wir David Barbour is able to take so unterful a view of a situation which most people are inclined to regard with apprehension, more particularly since the fresh decline in the silver, but it is somewhat curious see the chairman of the Bi-metaliic League defending a policy which, whatever may be the pase now, was certainly initiated with view to the introduction of a gold standard. THE REVOIT OF THE DAUGHTERS. and lightest food I had so much pain that it AM ANSWER .- BE LADY JEUNE.

Lest month's Nineteenth Century that a grawing sinking sensation at the pit of my stomach. I was greatly troubled with wind stomach. I was greatly troubled with wind wings of a social revolution has produced pain it was like spasms, for I could not straighten critics in the February numbers both of the critics in the February numbers both of the myself. I gradually got weaker and weaker, and Nineteenth and of the Fortnightly Review. felt so weak and exhausted that I could scarcely Mrs Frederic Harrison writes a dialogue on, drag myself along. As time went on I wasted the subject in the tormer; Lady Jeune away until I got as thin as a match, and sould denice the revolution, and the need for it, barely walk across the floor. I felt so downin toto, in the latter. Mrs Harrison's dias hearted that I used to say I shall never get was on Mothers and Daughters' suggests better any more in this world. I took all kinds that although family life is in process of of medicines, but finding myself getting warse I reorganization, a jeune file bien élevée got a recommendation to the Leeds Infirmary, can generally be depended upon. And where I was attended to by several doctors, who Lady Jeune's article comes to very much

COULD THERE BE A HAPPIER LIFE! Lady Jeune is inclined to make light of Mrs Crackanthorpe's suggestion that many mothers and daughters do not 'hit it off.' With constitutionally hysterical girls, says Lady Joune, this has always been the case forty years ago. There are not many girls who sigh for the forbidden fruits of and legitimate happiness. can distance her male competitors. If monopoly of her brothers. If sentimental or of a humanitarian disposition, she can society was pleasanter or more delightful provisions of the Statutory Declaration Act, 1835 for girls, or when there were fewer restrictions on their enjoyment, and those only of such a nature as to prevent them going too far ahead until they have acquired some moral ballast. The freedom which girls are permitted now, even in the strictest households, is as much as is good or wholesome for them thering the early years that the result of education and the spirit of the age is against placing any voxatious. restrictions on their daughters. MOTHERS AND MARRIAGE.

Mothers are accused by Mrs Crackanthorpe, of keeping their daughters in, merely to get them married. There are, of course, two suggestions here, one in the nature of an innuendo. The first is that gure, but women bear most of the pain in this mothers do not mind whom their daughters sad world, and when once acquainted they and marry, and only restrict their liberties in "Mother Seigel are 'ever' the best of friends," order that they may have to marry like Joe and Pile in Dickens' story. samebody : the second, somewhat wider, is that whether they look out for good husbands or only husbands (as eggs are divided at shops into new-laid, warranted, and 'eggs') mothers think more of mar- ches, Redness, Eczema, Aone, Disfigurements, riage as the object of their daughters' Roughness and Scurf, &c., leaving a clear, spotexistence than they ought to; in fact, they less Skin and beautiful Complexion. Sulpholine ought to think first of education, and is a necessity for the Skin, especially in het secondly of marriage, letting-the weddingring look after itself. Against this latter in Shilling Bottles. view Lady Joune strongly protests. primal fact.

THE MARRIAGE-MARKET. As for the marriage-market, it has always existed. This is what Lady Jenne says, with reference to Mrs Crackanthorpe's somewhat implement stories of young girls sold to young (or old) rakes :-

Of the mother, with her knowledge of don, S.E. life, we will not speak, for there is nothing to be said in extenuation; but of the girl one must always remember she is ignorant, and often weak, and has the example before her of many women who have done the same, and have, with an unpromising future before them, not only made themselves happy, but their husbands better men. A girl will always justify her action by the hope that, in the aurroundings of a happy peaceful life and the influence of a better woman, a man will ranger himself and become a good husband and father. The risk is great and the result always doubtful; but there are sufficient examples of such cases to make her feel that the experiment need not be a failure. Men cannot and will not, at least as society is at present constituted, bring a blameless past to the alter; but they may make expiation for their past by fidelity and devotion to the woman they marry; and unless a man is lost to every sense of honour, he does not disappoint the woman in her expectations. There are some men so completely outside the pale of morality as to be worthless in every way, but of the majority may we not reasonably admit our posttion to be a fair one! In the face of the greater emancipation desired by girls, which would, if permitted, lead to grave scandals, it seems a little superfluous that they should expect so high a standard of morality from men; and if the concession of the Wanderjahr is made to them, we shall see the positions reversed, and find mon exacting a standard of purity from women the existence of which is now taken as a matter of course. THE MEANING OF THE LATCH-KEY.

If a girl (says Lady Joune) is to be left to exercise her own discretion in such things, it can be only after a fuller knowledge of life and its problems has been unfolded to her ; for she could not be launched on her new career without full instructions in the mysteries of the Book of Life. any one calmly say that such a change is being made at Yokohama with Steamers possible or desirable in any of its aspects I from Shanghai. Do we wish to see our girls half men in theory and half women in inexperience and ignorance, with a apperficial smattering of knowledge grafted on to the restless impulses and vague curiosity of youth-with all the romance, all the illusions of life dispelled, and with neither the constitution nor capacity of men to carry out their careers, and, above al beruft of the sweet gift of purity which charm) -St. James's Beriget.

MES. CALAP GOES TO SEE MRS. MILLS. And it was not for an hour's that over a cun of tea that she went to see her, but on a much more serious matter. For Mrs. Mills had been to European vilicials in service of China quoted in the newspapers as having said some and Japan, and to Government officials and thing which might be of importance to Mrs. their families. I had a dull, heavy pain at the right side, the whites of my eyes were a yellow colour, and my skin was sallow as if I had the jaundice. I had an awful hade in the mouth, my tongue and teeth being covered with slime so thick that I had to scrape it away. My ap-nearly killed me. I had always great pain and weight at my chest and through to my back, also month, but I got no better. The doctors sounded my cheet and lange, and seemed puzzled with my sufferings, for they fraquently changed my medicine. Getting no better I next went to the Dispensary in North Street, and persevered taking their medicines, but it was all to no purpose. I now gave up taking physic for I had lost all faith in it, and my sufferings continued to a certain extent. It is not a modern until January, 1891, when I heard a neighbour malady. And as to freedom, why, the girl of mine, Mrs. Ann Mills, 40, Bread Street, of to-day is a different creature to that of having been cured (after the doctors had given Curative Syrup. I went with my daughter to see Mrs. Mills, who told me that Seigel's Syrup because music-halls, plays which doal with got a bottle of the medicine, and after taking a equivocal subjects, and books which treat few doses I felt relief. The public may remember the account of Mrs. Mills' illness and recovery, published some time ago. We are glad that Mrs. Calap heard of it of their life, and were the restraints re- and went straight to that lady herself for the inlaxed the ultimate results would be indeed formation she wanted. The visit resulted just disastrons. Most mothers have realized as might have been expected. Both our good friends had suffered from the same disease, indigestion and dyspensis, and the remedy which cured in the first case was equally successful in that of her neighbour. No wonder Mrs. Calaphad lost all faith in physic, and if Mother Seigel' Syrup were "physic," we should not look for people to have faith in it either. But it is a ramedy, not "physic." It doesn't upset and disgust, it soothes and heals. Men fall ill, to be
